- Heating Pad
- Warm bath
- Massage
- Stretching exercises or pelvic rock
- Do not recommend chiropractic adjustment

Call office if low back pain associated with increase vaginal pressure, increase in discharge or bloody discharge, or uterine cramping.

10. Insomnia -

This is not an unnatural occurrence in pregnancy for many reasons. The usual course of insomnia is waking up after a few hours sleep and being unable to fall back to sleep. Do not lie awake in bed for over ½ hour trying to get back to sleep. Get up, draw a warm bath and read a book for ½ to 1 hour, then attempt to go back to sleep. Having a cup of chamomile tea can sometimes help this process. More conservative measures are preferred but if these fail, the medications listed below are acceptable but not in the 1st trimester.

- Benadryl (Ok for 1st trimester but only for use with an allergic reaction)
- Tylenol or Aleve PM

Ok during entire pregnancy:

- Unisom
- Melatonin - 3 mg or less

11. Constipation

- Colace or like non-brand
- Increase fiber in diet or with brands such as Metamucil, Konsyl or Fibercon Drink plenty of water
- Miralax

12. Leg Cramps (especially at night)

- Stay hydrated
- Take Calcium (Two Calcet or equivalent) at bedtime
- Make sure your potassium intake is adequate (eat bananas)

13. Gas

- Mylicon, Gas-X, Phazyme or Mylanta Gas

14. Hemorrhoids

- Tucks, Preparation-H or Anusol
